A. Summary & Current Status:

Campaign Literature and Diverse Communities: Access Issues & Sustainability Solutions is a poster session that Elaine McCracken, Yolanda Blue, and I have proposed to present at the 76th IFLA Conference, which takes place August 11-15, 2010 in Gothenburg, Sweden. “The International Federation of Library Associations and Institutions (IFLA) is the leading international body representing the interests of library and information services and their users. It is the global voice of the library and information profession” (viewed March 30, 2010, <http://www.ifla.org/en/about>).

Our proposal has been accepted by the IFLA committee. Please read the embedded acceptance email below from Lidia Putziger, IFLA Membership Officer. Note that only one presenter (Yolanda Blue) was identified to correspond with the IFLA Professional Committee, though we are all listed as presenters in our proposal. Yolanda has confirmed our commitment to present by responding to Lidia Putziger’s original acceptance email.

E. Abstract of the paper or poster accepted for presentation.

Local Elections, Campaign Literature and Diverse Communities: Access Issues & Sustainable Solutions

In the U.S. the right to vote and the use of the vote are seen as pillars of responsible citizenship and a healthy democracy.

Our poster focuses on a crucial, but somewhat allusive literature – that of electoral campaigns geared toward local multicultural communities in California’s Santa Barbara and Ventura Counties. California is only mandated to collect ballot measures, campaign finances, candidate data and election results.

An initial assessment of available literature: election flyers, realia, posters, photographs, web sites, social networks, and digital media that has been collected and preserved by libraries and repositories are limited in scope. Many of our local candidates’ websites from the most recent election are no longer online.

Open access to knowledge and preservation of this literature helps citizens understand past and current community issues. Our project archive will assist diverse communities to view how their representatives have articulated issues.

Our poster will include text and images of multiple formats (print, posters, pamphlets, digitized and born digital) included in the archive. We will highlight the campaign literature of local diverse communities.

In addition, this archive will serve as a foundation to understand persistent issues, formulate informed current and future strategies, solutions, and develop coalition-building efforts.
