

Annette Marines, UCSC
LAUC Mini-Grant Application for a Presentation Grant
2010

A. The LAUC-mini grant would be used to fund travel to the 2010 Conference on College Composition and Communication (CCCC) Annual Convention in Louisville, Kentucky. I will be presenting with a panel during the session "Practicing Partnership: A Librarian -- Writing Program Collaboration." This panel will describe and assess a yearlong collaboration between UCSC reference librarians and composition faculty. The CCCC convention would present an excellent forum to help increase the visibility of instruction librarians as well as illuminate the contributions the profession makes to undergraduate education.

The year-long collaboration has come to an end. The project findings are being used to redesign UCSC's undergraduate library instruction program. The main outcomes have been to include more input from writing instructors, simplify our message, and incorporate higher-order research skills in library instruction for writing courses.

B. Description of and timetable for activities
March 19-21, 2010. The session will be held from 3:30 PM to 4:45 PM on Saturday, March 20, 2010.

E. Abstract

Practicing Partnership: A Librarian -- Writing Program Collaboration

This panel will describe and assess a yearlong collaboration between UCSC reference librarians and composition faculty. 2 librarians and 2 instructors will address and assess a yearlong collaboration at our institution. Along with a small pilot group of faculty at our campus, we undertook to collaborate on pedagogy, strategies and best practices with which to integrate library-based research tasks into first-year writing courses. Building on recent research in the field which urged a shift towards thinking about reference librarians "in terms of teaching rather than service" (Columbia University 2007), and with the encouraging prompting from our librarians, this collaboration has resulted in a new way to create an integrated library-writing class.
